MILWAUKEE: Monday Morning, Nov. 24.

To our Campaign Subscribers We have fought a good fight together, and shall gladly continue our acquaintance with ail who have read the Sentinel during the campaign just closed.

ONE DOLLAR, enclosed to our address, will secure the WEERLY SERVINEL for one year; THERE DOLLARS AND FIFTY CENTS the TRI-WIRKLY, and SEVER DOLLARS the DAILY for the same time.

The more readers we can secure, the more good we can do the Republican Cause, and we hope to run the circulation of our Weekly up to of the steamer, if peradventure it should yet be 10,000 during the next three or four months

The Southern Pro-Slavery Victory. We noticed some days since that the Souther, Secessionists were not yet satisfied-and that, as appears from the letter of one of the most influential among them, Mr. Rhett, of South Carolina, they are still determined to dissolve the Union, and set up on their own account.

There is another class of pro-slavery leaders in the most ultra of the states, who are satisfied copy a few paragraphs from this remarkable let-

In the recent election of President and Vice President, the South has triumphed over almost the entire North—the South, aided by Pennsylthe entire North—the South, ancel by remay-vanis, Indiana and New Jersey, has given the Chief Magistrate, and the second officer in ex-ecutive grade, to the republic, for the ensuing presidential term. It is emphatically a southern victory—fought on southern grounds, and under conservative and constitutional leaders, against an embattled host, flying the ominous flag of Black Republicanism, under the lead of a south-ern renerated and trailor. ern renegade and traitor.

Black Republicanism is dead; the constiblack Republicania is to carserted and permanently secured, by the verdict and edict of the ballot-box; the Wilmot proviso is no more; the Missouri line is obliterated; Kansas is ours; the Constitution reigns supreme, and the Union is preserved and perpetuated. The united south has spoken, in a voice of thunder, life to the conand, grown as the south is, from a feeble into a mighty power.—mighty in population, territory and wealth—she has but to remain united, and she will, without fail, as in the past, go in the future, rule the Union, with a constitutional rule (fairly won at the ballot box.) and secure its perpetuity, in a consummation of national happiness, greatness and glory, unprecedented in listory, and dazzing even imagination in the fast

All very well, Mr. Yeadon. This Black Republicanism" is dying a very lively sirt of death. There never was, in all the history of parties, one which, in articulo mortis, as it is said to be by its opponents, exhibited so much lif; and strength and hope. The vigorous young party which, at two years of its age, has evinced such power, is no more dead or conquered than the spirit and men of the old Revolution were conquered at Bunker Hill. Look out for a Yorktown when this party shall be six years old. The determined spirit of aggression on the part of Slavery, will leave but one party in the Free States in 1860, while the few hundred comageour souls who have, in deliance of outrage and Volaxy Farson, Esq.—In the list of parsongers by the Arabia, we notice the name of Volary French of Wisconsin. This gentleman has been absent, travelling through the East and on the Continent of Europe, for the last two years. We have been shown a letter during the past week written by Mr. Ludington, one of the Fillmore magnates in Milwarkee, just previous to the election, to a gentleman of our acquaintance, in reply to a request made by the latter to send him some straight Fillmore Tickets. Mr. Ludington informed our friend that the Americans in Milwarkee had made up their minds to vote for James Buchanan, and hoped he would do the same and induce as many others to do to as he same and induce as many others to do so as he could. NEW YORK, Nov. 17. Disasters on the Lakes, and disasters on the See, have marked this season as one of great calamity. The loss of the steam propelled and wind propelled vessels, has been very heavy on our inland waters, involving both life and property to a great extent. The latest disaster on the sea is that of the French iron Propeller, the Lymais, which only on her second day out from this city, was run down in the night by a large sailing vessel-of which nothing was afterwards seen or heard. We do not yet know the mortality occasione by this dreadful collision, for as the Lyonnais had ot foundered at the last dates, and as only one boat load of passengers are known to have been picked up, there is yet hope for those unaccount ed for-for all the boats, as well as the rafts that were constructed, were provisioned. As soon as the news of this said occurrence reached here, the Steamer Warrior was equipped and sent out to look for the missing boats and for the wreck

We mained tight, although the ship might have been her passengers-keeping the boats in readiness to row towards any friendly vessel that might heave in sight, and bring them to the rescue. Of the sailing vessel no tidings appear, nor as yet does any identification manifest itself of the figure head left on board the ill-fated French vessel at the moment of collision. It is hard to believe that if uninjured, the stranger would have gone on his way without stopping to enquire what mischief he had done, or whether help was needed—and it seems about as impossible that a vessel striking bow on, as she did, could have been herself so much damaged as immediately to founder.

A few days may resolve this painful suspense and meanwhile ships will go and come, well peopled with living mon and women and precious nerchandise, as though no danger existed and no losses were possible. Happily, this is so-for otherwise, so frequent are the shocks along the path of life, whether by land or by water, that if each one of them were to cause a halt in the universal march, evils greater even than shipwreck or loss of life, occasionally would result. may not disregard, but we must not be discouraged, in our just and peaceful enterprises, by these untoward events. DISHONEST HACKNES, -- Numerous acts of gross DISHONERT HACKMEN.—Numerous acts of gross extortion, on the part of Hark and Cabmen, have come to the knowledge of the Polloc within a short time, and that, contributed the polloc within a short time, and that, contributed the polloc within a short time, and that, contributed time, and the c strong evidence against him.
Pol ceman Rice arrested a Hackman on Thursday, who figured in one of these acts of extortion, but the evidence, although sufficient to show him a particips criminis, was not sufficient to produce a conviction, under a stric construction of the city ordinance—a bungling, lame, im-potent and worthless ordinance, by which, if it had been the intention of its author to enable that class of men to defraud the public with impunity, could not have been in the case alluded to, the real Hackman got another to drive pro tem, who charged a countryman $5 for convey-ing him from the railroad depot to the steambeat. The owner was an accessory only, and escaped punishment.

There are several Hackmen and Cabmen who have are engaged in the business of conveying passengers in this city for several years, against whom not a breach of suspicion has ever been entertained of fraud, exter lon, or any dishenest conduct whatever, while many others, is s well known to the police, are constantly practicing some of these frequently making $25 and $50 each day.

As an instance of their shrewdness, we will clee one case which occurred here, to show how the public are sometimes imposed upon. A Hackman gets cleanly shared, obtains a cloud, puts a deep craps on his hat and represents it limself as a merchant going East, who has just got intelligence of the death of his wife, having lost a brothr just before he came West, for whom he is in mourning When the cars come in he finds three or four who are gofor East and mingles with them, and suggests the hiring of a private carriage to convey them to the boat. The hack or carriage of course belongs to the supposed merchan, who has employed another to drive. As soon as they get to the steamboat pier, which is managed so us to be about three minutes before the time of starting, an-other, who is in the secret, criss out 'all aboard!" Down jumps the driver, "I want your fare, genilement, you've only one minute," "How much is the fare?" says the osed merchant; " $5 spiece, gentlenen," says the

Here an alternation takes place about the exterior and threats to prosecute, &c., pass. The neschant advises the others to pay, as it will cost them more to stay and prosecute the driver than double the fare; and he himself pulls out a $5 bill, and swearing that he'll be back hat way in a week, and sue the driver, pays the exte tion. "All aboard?" shouts the other outside; the steam-boat bell begins to toll for the last time, and the others, fearful of being left, and fearing also a greater expense, pay up, and leave on the steamboat.

Now, although the Police know of these cases, how are they to convict the Hackman or sham driver, if they are rest them? All the evidence has some East, and an dihonest Hackmen are not given to pleasi guilty to such charges, and as they cannot be convicted without evidence, they escape purishment. Many other tricks are resorted to for the same purpose.

WHITTERCORN & Co., of this cits, send us a copy of this catribation to the literature of the day, by Prof. ALUER. It is a work of love on the part of the author, intended to introduce to the familiar acquaintance of American readers, some of the geme of Arab, Hiscison and Persian poetry, culted with rice appreciation and discrimination, partially from translations by other writers who have wandered in the same fields, and partly from the origi-nals by himself. The writer's desire has been to furnish some idea of the pathon, wit, wealth of fancy, and versa tility of gestus displayed by the Orientas, and he has successed, we think, admirably.
